

Rustic Joyful Food

REAL FOOD THAT MAKES YOU HAPPY

author, television personality, recipe developer & food stylist

I am Danielle Kartes. As the founder and creative director of Rustic Joyful Food, I work alongside my husband, Michael, creating written food-based content and stunning imagery for countless clients. At Rustic Joyful Food, in addition to teaching people how to prepare beautiful meals, we want to spread the message that life is good today – no matter what. I wrote the Rustic Joyful Food cookbooks: My Heart's Table, Generations, Meant to Share, and Butter, Flour, Sugar, Joy. In addition, I have authored seven children's cookbooks, all of which have been published by Sourcebooks. I've also written a memoir titled You Were Always There.

About

MY LIFE

I began writing recipes at a very young age and sharpened that skill when we owned a bistro for three years. I am driven by happy accidents in the kitchen. Nothing I do ever feels forced, and I strive for authentic recipes that you can make on your own with what you have on hand. I adore testing recipes and making simple dishes that translate into food you can actually make in real life. We love organic food, but I'm a firm believer in working with what you have, can afford, and is available to you – no honey bee tears required! We eat chicken nuggets on busy days and 4-course meals on others.

Founder, Rustic Joyful Food

The word "florescence" is defined as the process of blooming, flourishing. I wanted to create a spirit that spoke to the vibrancy and beauty of this life, a spirit designed for women by a team of women and distilled by one incredible guy.

The fabulous team at Heritage Distilling and I had this vision for a bright, beautiful, natural vodka to be used for stunning cocktails or simply for sipping on ice. Grapefruits and pomelos are sweet and bitter at the same time, just like life. And citrus fruits are winter fruits. Grapefruit season occurs during the darker, cooler part of the year. So, in a way, Florescence represents an endless summer. It's a bright spot in a dark time, so to speak. That combination and contrast gives life a singular beauty.

And living is worth celebrating, right now. We embrace that and enjoy life to its fullest, one drink at a time.
